Helicopter Parents

Your school just created a new student organization called "Debate Club" which you have joined. The first topic up for debate is: Does too much parental involvement hinder a child's independence? To prepare for the first meeting, you must determine your opinion about this topic based on all of the information you have read and analyzed, as well as your own experiences.

ment can be a bad thing? Well, it can. I believe that too much parent involvement hinders a child's ability to be independent. As children grow from toddlers to adults, they need to be given more independence along the way so they can function successfully on their own in the adult world. For this to happen, parents must allow their children
