Prompt: How has Technology Changed Daily Life?

Think about how daily life, from reading to playing games to communicating with others, has changed over the past hundred years because of technology. Do you think technology has changed over the years that have passed starting from decades to centuries? I think so since people now have different ways in reading, communicating, video games, and transportation. People used to read books from paper decades ago, and now people read books from cell phones, kindle fires, and etc. Since paper comes from trees isn't that saving trees? Since trees is oxygen for us that is very good! So practically that's saving oxygen for us maybe reading on devices is actually a good thing. Technology has changed the way we now communicate with each other. For example, people decades or centuries ago used to communicate by writing to each other, or they would go to each others homes and talk. Now, people use social media's. Such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and or any other social media's. That has changed how people now communicate with each other
