BECAUSE WRITING MATTERS

The MY Editor TextSpeak rule set identifies use of informal spelling and acronyms that are prevalent in text and instant message communication. For each identified error, the student receives a short message describing why it is inappropriate, a detailed definition of TextSpeak, and replacement suggestions. If no direct replacements are appropriate (for example, “LOL,” TextSpeak for “laugh out loud,” is no more appropriate in abbreviated or written form), then replacement options are described in the second, more detailed message. One example of direct replacement is “What r u doing 2nite? Call me l8r,” becoming “What are you doing tonight? Call me later.”
